STRATEGIC MESSAGING

- ▶ Daily evaluation of all information & intelligence leads to SMART goal objectives
- ▶ From Objectives, key messaging with Strategic Communications and PLT's are developed
- ▶ Key messaging is distributed from Cst. On the Street to the PM
- ▶ Key messaging is delivered to Canadians on all nodes of governmental communications and personal interactions with protestors and non-protestors alike
- ▶ Key messaging should be delivered to all police nation wide for when challenged by the general public
- ▶ Key messaging can be altered, portions of it stopped or added to during the course of the day

DEPLOYMENT MODEL

- ▶ Some of the officers selected will have previous PLT training, or have been trained in School liaison and or community police specialists
- ▶ These specific officers will be deployed to the protest area exclusively to build relationships with the protest community
- ▶ These specific officers will be soft hat uniform, perfectly turned out with excellent deportment
- ▶ These officers will replace the OPS officers at Traffic Control Points, foot patrols and other protest sites to reduce the OPS footprint in order to grant them rest time
- ▶ OPS and other specialized resources will remain nearby on standby in QRT fashion to effect a “rescue” in the event of repeated swarming events or a critical incident, but unless absolutely necessary they should remain out of the public eye
- ▶ Add to speakers notes: These QRT teams can be officers in a type of tactical uniform typical to that service’s work of this nature. But Ottawa members will be critical for this work as they know the ground, alleyways and quick response routes to the area.
- ▶ Why community type police? Quickly build relationships, make “friends” and deliver key messaging in ways this particular person will understand
